

▶ STOP PRESS! ABC has also ordered a pilot for a Mad Hatter spin-off from Once Upon A Time.

US PILOT SEASON

Pilot Lights

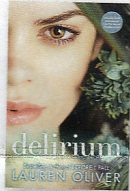

What may or may not be lighting up the 2013-14 TV season

▶ Believe (NBC)

THE PREMISE: The saga of a "gifted" girl and the man sworn to save her.
PROS: Writer-director Alfonso Cuarón is one of the most acclaimed genre filmmakers in the world.
CONS: Will Cuarón's vision succeed on the small screen?

▶ Delirium (Fox)

THE PREMISE: In the future, love is illegal.
PROS: Author Lauren Oliver's YA novel, on which the show's based, was a critical and commercial smash.
CONS: Will teens want to visit a dystopia every week?

▶ Gothica (ABC)

THE PREMISE: Frankenstein meets Dracula, but it's, y'know, sexy.
PROS: Once Upon A Time brought this crossover formula to TV, and audiences ate it up.
CONS: Once Upon A Time's ratings aren't what they used to be.

▶ Human (Fox)

THE PREMISE: Human cop partners with robot cop.
PROS: JJ Abrams produces and Karl Urban (Judge Dredd himself!) stars in this Blade Runner-esque odyssey.
CONS: Remember the problems Fringe had on Fox?

▶ The Hundred (The CW)

THE PREMISE: One hundred teenagers must repopulate the Earth.
PROS: It's like The Hunger Games, but for teenage boys!
CONS: Do teenage boys really care about stuff like this?

▶ Intelligence (CBS)

THE PREMISE: Dude from Lost has microchip in brain.
PROS: Heartthrob Josh Holloway has a huge following demanding more of him. His return to TV is imminent.
CONS: Do the rest of us want another spy show?

▶ The Last Ship (TNT)

THE PREMISE: Battleship for grown-ups? A naval crew confronts a pandemic.
PROS: "Executive producer Michael Bay" might inspire terror, but Rhona Mitra and Adam Baldwin are watchable.
CONS: Is there a Bay-sized price tag attached to this baby?

▶ Legends (TNT)

THE PREMISE: Fan fave Sean Bean is an undercover operative who transforms himself for each assignment.
PROS: Producer Howard Gordon (The X-Files, 24, Homeland) knows how to tell a tale of espionage.
CONS: Will Bean die on screen yet again?

▶ The Originals (The CW)

THE PREMISE: Vampire Diaries' First Family gets its own show.
PROS: VD showrunner Julie Plec is on board, as is Klaus (Joseph Morgan).
CONS: Has sexy vamp fatigue set in?

▶ Second Sight (CBS)

THE PREMISE: Remake of the Clive Owen BBC drama about a rogue cop going blind.
PROS: Jason Lee might offer a more vulnerable cop than Owen's.
CONS: There are even more cop shows out there than spy shows.

▶ The Selection (The CW)

THE PREMISE: The Hunger Games joins forces with Cinderella.
PROS: This "sci-fi fairytale" is based on another popular YA novel.
CONS: "35 girls. 1 crown. The competition of a lifetime." Ugh.

▶ SHIELD (ABC)

THE PREMISE: Joss Whedon takes SHIELD to TV.
PROS: When he last visited this universe, Whedon crafted the third highest grossing film of all time. Oh yes, ABC (which is owned by Disney) will give this a chance.
CONS: None.

▶ The Sixth Gun (NBC)

THE PREMISE: Oni Press's supernatural Civil War western gets adapted.
PROS: Undead Confederates? Six cursed weapons? The fate of the world? What's not to love?
CONS: Locke And Key proved indie comics aren't an easy sell to TV.

▶ Sleepy Hollow (Fox)

THE PREMISE: The Washington Irving classic is reimagined... again!
PROS: Roberto Orci and Alex Kurtzman are back, with a contemporary Ichabod Crane.
CONS: Grimm, Once Upon A Time, Gothica... this subgenre's getting crowded.

▶ The Tomorrow People (The CW)

THE PREMISE: The classic Brit show remade.
PROS: Executive Producer Julie Plec (her again?) has a solid grip on teen fare, evident from the success of Vampire Diaries.
CONS: Vampire Diaries' last sister show, The Secret Circle, died quickly. SFX

Once Upon a Time in Wonderland

Kommer 2013-10-10

TV-serie

Our story begins as many tales of imagination begin "Once Upon a Time" only this time it is, "Once Upon a Time in Wonderland". Yes, Wonderland a land filled with marvelous and fantastic places and characters, teeming with adventure and mystery, a land where a beautiful young girl once went but no one would believe her tale. In fact they tried to say she was a bit insane, troubled, lost in her imagination.

The time was Victorian England and the young and beautiful Alice (played by Sophie Lowe) was about to have her memories forcibly removed by her doctors. That strange land that existed of all places on the other side of the rabbit hole. A strange place, a place with an invisible cat, a White Rabbit (played by John Lithgow), talking playing cards, a hookah smoking caterpillar, and of course we cannot forget to mention the Red Queen (played by the very lovely Emma Rigby).

Alice knows however that her doctors are about to make her forget all about Wonderland. Alice is especially ready to forget the painful memories of Cyrus the genie (played by Peter Gadiot) who she gave her heart to and yet lost forever when she returned to the "real" world. Perhaps Alice is insane as her doctors would have her believe, perhaps Alice did imagine it all, yet down deep in her heart she knows it was real; but who will save poor Alice from losing all the memories she holds deep in her mind and in her heart?

The White Rabbit along with the Knave of Hearts (played by Michael Socha) arrive just in time to prevent Alice from losing her memories. Now it is time for Alice and her friends to return to Wonderland, so down the three of them tumble, yes down the rabbit hole they go and Alice can continue her marvelous tale of "Once Upon a Time in Wonderland".
